

Jamal SEIFI

Jamal Seifi (b. 1954) is a national of Iran and has been a Member of the Iran-United States Claims Tribunal since September 2009. He has been a member of the Permanent Court of Arbitration (PCA) since 2006 and was a member of the Drafting Committee of eminent international jurists who drafted the PCA Optional Rules of Arbitration of 2012.

Judge Seifi graduated with an LLB from the National University of Iran in 1978, an LLM and PhD in international law and arbitration from the University of Hull (UK), in 1986 and 1990, respectively. Between 1979 and 1985 he served as a judge with the Iranian judiciary. In 1992, he became a member of the Iranian Central Bar Association and founded the law firm of Jamal SEIFI & Associates, focusing mainly on international arbitration, from which he took leave upon appointment to the Tribunal. During that time, he acted as lead counsel and expert in several international and domestic arbitration and litigation cases and provided legal advice on international and commercial law matters. In parallel, he has continuously acted as co-arbitrator, sole arbitrator or chairman in various international and domestic arbitration cases since early 1990s.

Alongside his private practice, Judge Seifi pursued his academic career as a lecturer in international law with the University of Hull (1989-1991), where he returned as a “visiting professor” for two academic years in 1999 and 2000, teaching a full course on international commercial arbitration. He has held a tenured academic career with Shahid Beheshti (formerly National) University of Iran since late 1991 and was an associate professor with this institution when in September 2009 he took a leave to join the Tribunal. During the year 2014 Judge Seifi taught a full course on International Arbitration Law at the University of Tilburg (The Netherlands). He was subsequently appointed Professor of Global Law by Tilburg University, holding this visiting Chair at Tilburg University for 2015.

Judge Seifi has been a member of many academic associations, arbitration institutions and editorial boards, locally and internationally, including the editorial board of the Asian Yearbook of International Law (2000-2010). During the years 2004-2006 he led the project for the preparation and drafting of the first ever Rules of Arbitration of the Arbitration Centre of the Iran Chamber (ACIC). Judge Seifi has delivered lectures and speeches in various domestic and international conferences, including at those of the ACIC, TRAC, DILA, IBA, ICC, LCIA and PCA, as well as at several Iranian, Asian and European universities. He was the lead author of the ‘Iran Arbitration Report’ in the Encyclopedia of International Arbitration (2012) and has co-published a book on 'Free and Fair Elections in International Law' (translation into Persian). He has written and published numerous articles, chapters, papers and reports, locally and internationally, in Persian and in English, on such areas as international arbitration; State responsibility; the International Court of Justice; the law of treaties; civil liability of the State under the human rights treaties; Iran's arbitration laws, and its oil and gas regulations.
